

Chicory

A perennial forage which is highly nutritional for summer and fall feeding. Excellent for cattle and deer. Withstands heavy grazing. Has a deep taproot, is drought resistant, and has a high protein content. Great for deer and can be planted with other legumes.

Chicory is a reoccurring annual. Best when planted between the months of September and November at a depth of 1/8"- 1/4". Suggested broadcast rate is about 5 pounds per acre.
